

WHAT TO CONSIDER FOR UNCONTESTED MATTERS

The following are things you should consider when your attorney drafts your settlement agreement.

What Is A Settlement Agreement?

A document that both parties sign in order to resolve issues relating to their divorce or other family law matters such as child custody, parenting time, support, alimony or division of property. Judges still have to sign off on your agreement.

Financial Considerations

Who will pay for the following?

- Child care expenses
- Child tax credits
- Who will be primary custodian?
- Child(rens) car and expenses
- Child(rens) health insurance
- Out-of-pocket medical expenses and how will you split them?

What To Have Prepared For Possible Custody Issues:

- A schedule for each day of the year
- A schedule for each holiday
- A schedule for any holidays that are important to you
